BILL IS FOUGHTArdenia Folk Getting Up Petitions Addressed to Governor and Under Legislators in Opposition to Proposition.The Ardenia people are getting up three petitions opposing the township school bill. One will be sent to Assemblyman LeFever, one to Senator Walton and one to Governor Whitman. This is about the only way it is believed to stop legislation that seems destined to take away the birthright of the rural children.The only argument put up in favor of the "bill" is equalization of taxation. Well, what if it does equalize the tax? It cannot help being higher with all the added expense. That myth of a "Checkered School house" that never existed is very poor reason to condemn the rural schools. One writer in favor of abolishing the rural schools complains of improper lighting of one school. It might be a little easier to change that condition than to close that school and build a new school some miles distant.If one wishes to know the results of closing schools and transporting children, find out how it works at Hyde Park, north of Poughkeepsie.
When one knows the hardships the children have under such a system, one will not wish to give up the rural school.It is hoped by the opponents to the plan that many petitions opposing the "Township System for Schools" will be gotten up within the next few days and sent to Albany.REAL ESTATE SALES.Deeds Recently Recorded in County

OF WEALTHY JOHN FOX.New York, Jan. 24.—Miss Helen
C. Devine, niece of the late John Fox, wealthy Tammany Hall politician, told on the witness stand before Justice Hutchins today how Mrs.
Catherine O'Brien, another niece of Fox, entered her daughter in the contest to defeat Eleanor Fox, only granddaughter and favorite of the politician. Miss Fox is suing to break the "Senator's" will, as he was known to members of his family.
Miss Devine told how Mrs. O'Brien taught her niece to run out and get a white carnation for "the Senator's" buttonhole. Miss Fox already having done this and having found favor with Fox for so doing. Eleanor and Catherine, the two rivals, then only little girls, fought and raced to get the old gentleman's slippers and entered into competition for favor in many other ways. Miss Devine said that Mrs. O'Brien sought to poison
"the Senator's" mind against
Eleanor.No Arrests Tuesday.Tuesday was a quiet day in police

BINGSTON, N. Y., JAN. 24, 1917.

A correct description of the importance of the farming industry in Ulster County is exhibited at the outset by the reorganized Chamber of Commerce which plans to place prominence in the leading position on its program as now outlined. Just how fortunate Kingston is situated for the carrying out of a co-operative movement for the welfare of the city and extensive producing country surrounding it on three sides, has not been realized in the past. We hear a great deal about other cities, their wonderful growth and their advantages, but a visit to many of them would not disclose a fraction of the assets that Kingston presents to the prospective home-seeker or industrial investor, and nothing even faintly resembling the great farming section stretching back to the mountains. It is with the idea of focussing attention on some of these advantages right at our door that the Chamber of Commerce has brought a former Federal government official, now secretary of the Chamber at Huntington, Pa., to Kingston where he will discuss ways and means of realizing community benefits from things right at our door rather than from those hazy dreamlike creations of promoters which seldom, if ever, materialize. There is a message here for our business men, city officials and taxpayers. What one town has done to aid agriculture and help itself brought it more advertising than could a $10,000 appropriation. In addition, the canning factory and co-operative marketing enterprises thus made possible have proved their usefulness over and over again. Why should not Kingston take an interest in a subject so intimately bearing upon their daily bread as well as upon their pocketbook?

Vigilantes are known no more in the West where their activities rid various communities of the presence of so many outlaws. As sections became more settled and closer communication was established, together with orderly process of law, such organizations outlived their usefulness. This fact is true in the East where of late years so many associations of horse-owners have given up the ghost, a conspicuous example being the resolution to disband adopted Saturday by the Ulster County Horse Owners' Protective Association. The advance of the automobile, the more efficient administration of justice and quicker police work made possible through the telephone have all contributed their share toward eliminating conditions which made such organizations necessary. It is probable that the obvious change in public sentiment toward the automobile will in time have a similar effect in making unnecessary the continuance of Automobile Clubs, originally formed to secure recognition for the rights of owners of gasoline-propelled vehicles. It is not so long ago but that most people can recall the distinctly hostile attitude of the average farmer toward these "devil wagons" but today you will find farmers arguing over the merits of the eight-cylinder machine over the four, or upholding the prowess of the Ford as the most useful vehicle of its class to the rural motorist. A horse thief is a rarity in most communities today and the rights of automobilists have obtained full and respectful hearing as the utility of these vehicles in contributing to human convenience and happiness has progressed. It would seem that the passing of the older association forebodes a similar fate for its logical successor as time goes on.

A rose by any oil or name would be as sweet but the same rule does not hold good with cities. Only the other day Oakland, California, tried to have all the other Oakland in the United States waive their claim to that name so that the Pacific Coast town could be the only Oakland. Now comes the modest request of Salem, Oregon, to Salem, Massachusetts, asking that the latter city change its name in order that there be no further confusion in the mails. There must have been a perceptible movement to the mountains over the graves of the early inhabitants of the ancient New England town when the petition from the West was made public. We are glad to note that the Massachusetts Salem turned the proposition down promptly; we hope there will be less of these abortive efforts on the part of hustling Western communities to secure exclusive rights to the names their founders copied after the East. As illustrations of community egotism, such requests are examples of the Booster Spirit coming into its logical heritage. Suppose that some day Kingston, Ontario, or Kingston, Jamaica, asked our city to relinquish its ancient name in their favor, or vice versa. We have international complications enough as it is and the prospect of any such request would be sufficient in itself to imperil the success of President Wilson's world peace league or other similar movements. Cities should stick to their names and the fewer changes in municipal nomenclature the better.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Do you assimilate your food, aunty?" "No, I don't, sah. I pays cash down for it."—Baltimore American.

The Inconsiderate Mice.
A more kind-hearted and ingenious soul never lived than Aunt Betsey, but she was a poor housekeeper. On one occasion a neighbor who had run in for a "back-door" call was horrified to see a mouse run across Aunt Betsey's kitchen floor. "Why on earth don't you set a trap, Betsey?" she asked.

"Well," replied Aunt Betsey, "I did have a trap set. But land, it was such a fuss. Those mice kept getting into it!"—Youth's Companion.

In the Old U. S. A.
When the Bannum and Bailey circus was playing in Sheffield, Mass., there was a great demand among the attaches of the show for Sheffield razors. A peddler who brought a stock of razors to the show grounds had no difficulty in disposing of them at fancy prices. There was a general feeling of felicitation among the purchasers until it occurred to someone to look for the trade mark on the steel. Then there was a sudden slump in razors. The trade mark read:

"Made in Philadelphia."—Frier's Digest.

He Wouldn't Laugh.
The eminent actor and the admired playright were in company with another man of mark. And the actor told a story in his best manner—a manner justly celebrated on two sides of the Atlantic and regarded by himself as effective—to say the least. The playright laughed heartily, and upon that laugh the actor, with nice professional skill, made his exit. Then the playright, observed that the other man of mark, at sight and glance regarded the playright with a look of disapprobation.

"That was a good story of Judkins," the playright said. "May I ask why you chose to center upon it such a disapprobation?"
"A good story," the other replied, explosively. "Of course it is a good story. I told that story to Judkins yesterday myself. And did he laugh. He did not. And today the pig-tailed pirate tells it back to me and expects me to laugh. Not much. I'll choke first."—New York Evening Post.

ROBERTS HEIRS CLAIM $2,000

A difference of $2,000 in the income on securities held until recently by the estate of Dr. Charles H. Roberts of Oakes, town of Lloyd, has developed between the report of income made by Frank B. Low, an executor, and by counsel for two of the Roberts children.

The lawyers were unable to compare their figures when the estate came on for hearing before Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court because neither attorney had brought his compilation to court. Harry Barker of Poughkeepsie, attorney for Executor Low, said he had made up his statement from the income actually received. Counsel for Thornton D. Roberts and for the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, which is executor under the will of Charles Roberts, a deceased son, had made a compilation of what they believed the income ought to be for the period between the time of filing the last account of the executor and the time the securities were disposed of, and their figures were $2,000 in excess of those submitted some time ago by Mr. Barker. As the final lot of bonds and stocks held by the executor were some time in transfer, it was suggested that the income had followed the stocks or bonds to the purchaser and that New York attorneys had estimated income for a period of the time of transfer, while in some cases the income was payable to subsequent purchasers.

Mr. Barker was examined by counsel in regard to some of the transfers of stock and bonds, the transfer of which was made between August first and November first.

The hearing was adjourned until February 27, when Mr. Barker will be examined in regard to other matters connected with the estate. At the same time a hearing will be held on an application of John B. Grubb of Poughkeepsie, attorney for Irving Roberts, to have a lien declared on Irving's share in the remainder of the estate for services which Mr. Grubb has rendered.

The attorneys who appeared at the hearing were: Harry Barker for Executor Low; Arthur McCausland of New York city for Mrs. Roberts and Judge Parker, who is attorney for Miss Grace V. B. Roberts; Mr. Lowe, of Lowe, Miller & Lowe of New York city, for Thornton D. Roberts; Mr. Dale, of Stewart & Scherer of New York city, attorneys for the United States Mortgage and Trust Company; Howard Chip, for Miss Frances Roberts of Highland, who was also present.

Miss Frances Roberts inquired at the close of the proceeding what reason had been given for the adjournment of the hearing, which was to have been held on December 19 last, but nobody remembered. She said it seemed to her that the adjournment would have been unnecessary if Mr. Barker and the other lawyers had been prepared.

NONE KNOW WHEN DEATH WILL COME

Angel of Death Knocks Unexpectedly
Says Evangelist Peacock—Are You Prepared to Die?—614 Have Hit Trail—Women Only Tonight.

"Be prepared to meet your God, and you won't be afraid to die" was the advice of Evangelist L. K. Peacock during the course of his sermon at the Delaware Avenue Tabernacle on Tuesday evening. He impressed upon the large audience the fact that none know when they will be called from time to eternity, and that now was the time to make their peace with God. At the close of the service seventy men and women accepted the invitation extended to consecrate themselves to God, and came forward. This makes 944 who have publicly consecrated themselves to the Lord so far during the evangelistic campaign.

Women Only Tonight

The service this evening at the Tabernacle will be for women only, and no men will be allowed. The meeting will be addressed by the evangelist and is open to high school girls, and those who work in stores, factories and offices. In fact every woman and girl is invited to attend.

The Great Question

Evangelist Peacock said that the great question of the day was the salvation of men and women. It seems strange he said that a great many people have no interest in their spiritual welfare. Some are so wrapped up in the affairs of the world that they lose sight of God.

All Have to Die

We all know we have to die. You know as well as I do that tonight we are in a few hours nearer the cemetery than we were last night. Some of you say I don't like to have him talk about death and the cemetery. Friends if you are prepared to meet your God you won't be afraid to die.

You can't dodge death, and the question I want to ask you is "Are you prepared to die?"

Well you say there are a few things I would like to fix up. Well you had better do it; you don't know how soon you may be called.

Not Here to Mellow

We all know we have not been doing as much for God as we could. I believe as long as God permits us to live on earth He expects us to work for Him. You don't think God expects us to sit here and mellow, do you?

There are two things the evangelist wanted his hearers to remember. They were—you have to answer to God, and you'll have to be better than you are.

Make Peace With God

The evangelist impressed the fact that after you are dead you can't make your peace with God. What you do for Christ you have to do while you are alive. If you shut Christ out of your life, if you have not made your peace with God you are lost unless you repent and accept Him.

A Man is a Fool

A man is a fool, a woman is a fool to turn down God and shut Him out of their lives.

Some people are wilfully wicked. They are the kind who curse God and the church. If you are that kind what are you going to do when the angel of death knocks at your door?

Now Is the Time

The evangelist said that now was the golden opportunity to accept Christ. Some people keep putting it off until it's too late and they are called from time to eternity without having made their peace with God while alive. He urged his hearers to take a stand for God and not be ashamed to come forward and consecrate themselves.

Asbestos Clothes

Evangelist Peacock announced that Saturday evening he would preach on amusements and would take up dancing, card playing, theaters and other forms of amusement. He warned his audience that if they were sensitive it would be best to stay at home, or if they came to wear asbestos clothes.

Church Delegations

There was a large delegation from the Port Ewen churches, the Albany Avenue Baptist Church and the Church of the Comforter present at Tuesday's service.

The Rev. Mr. Stowe, pastor of the Church of the Comforter, and Mr. Warth, the soloist of the evangelistic party, sang a duet which was enjoyed.

Music Is Fine

One of the most attractive features of the evangelistic meetings is the singing. The song books used have lively and appropriate hymns with tunes that are singable; and under the leadership of Mr. Warth the singing is an effective feature. The work of Mr. Campbell at the piano is also exceptionally good.

Week Day Services

The services this evening are for women only, but the services on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights are for every person. Friday afternoon Mr. Warth will have charge of a Bible class at the tabernacle. Thursday afternoon the evangelist will hold preaching services.

SOUTH RONDOUT

JURY FINDS BORELLI GUILTY

The case of Sam Borelli was completed shortly after noon and submitted to the jury for consideration at 12:20. At 2 o'clock they returned a verdict of assault in the first degree, as charged. Sentence will be pronounced Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The penalty is 5 to 10 years in prison.

With the exception of four witnesses sworn by District Attorney Praver in rebuttal this morning the case was closed on Tuesday afternoon as far as testimony was concerned.

Officer Connelly, who made the arrest, was sworn by the plaintiff this morning and testified that Borelli had confessed that he had shot Altamir but had not intended to do so. Sam said he was shooting at a bird and had missed.

Mr. Molyneux, the motorman on the trolley car, was called for the purpose of stating that at no time did he see a gun on the injured man and did not see him reach for his hip pocket in order to get a gun when Sam Borelli fired the first shot or before the shot was fired. The defendant claims that he shot only after Altamir had reached for a gun. Mr. McGraw, the conductor, testified to the same thing when called in rebuttal.

Mrs. John Turk (Turko), who Borelli claims gave him the gun on August 2, was sworn and denied that she had given the gun to Sam or that he was in the house while she was there. Mrs. Turk denied that she had sent her daughter into the house to get the gun for Sam or that she had later whipped the girl for getting the gun.

The remainder of the morning was consumed in the summing up by Judge William D. Egan, Jr., for the defendant and District Attorney Praver for the People. Court took a recess after the jury went out until 1:30 o'clock when the trial of Joe Weber will begin. The entire afternoon will be consumed in selecting a jury. Frank W. Brooks appears for Weber.

SAUGERTIES.

Saugerties, Jan. 21.—Tuesday 5:30 p. m. fire was discovered in the living apartments of L. Tepper on the second floor of the Fuller building on Parthenon street. Saugerties, caused by an overheated oil stove setting curtains afire. The fire department quickly responded to an alarm and soon extinguished the blaze. The damage by fire was slight. The stock of goods in the store on the first floor, owned by Tepper, was damaged by water.

Herman Tetlow of Division street is visiting his daughter in Bridgeport, Conn.

The Saugerties Concert Band will hold a dance in Columbus Hall Friday evening, January 26. The band will furnish music for dancing.

ANNUAL MEETING OF SANITARIUM

Surgical and Medical Staff Announced, Report of Work for Year Made and Projected Improvements Discussed.

The annual meeting of the board of directors and staff of the Benedictine Sanitarium was held at the institution Tuesday evening. The Rev. John J. Hickey, president of the board of directors, presided. After the reading and approval of the minutes of the last annual meeting, the president of the board announced the following officers and members of the staff for the coming year:

President, Mark O'Meara; Secretary, Frank L. Eastman. Attending Surgeons—Mark O'Meara, William J. O'Leary, Frank L. Eastman, John G. O'Leary, George Wilford, Frank B. Quinlan, John F. Larkin.

Attending Physicians—Christopher P. Keefe, Harry P. Van Wageningen, W. E. E. Little, John W. Hupp, Julia A. Dedever, B. W. Gifford.

Surgeon Eye, Ear Nose and Throat—Aden C. Gates.

Dentist—Samuel T. Levitas.

There was a very thorough discussion of the work of the institution by the staff and the board. Plans were considered for the improvement of the work in all ways and a meeting to be held soon in which the plans will be more thoroughly considered.

The training school committee was announced by the president as follows: Mark O'Meara, Aden C. Gates, Frank L. Eastman. He also added that in the future a part of the day of the training school committee would be to pass on the eligibility of candidates for admission to the school. The annual report of the institution was then submitted, as follows:

Patients admitted during year, 551
Patients treated during year, 571
Surgical cases treated, 327
Medical cases treated, 194
Obstetrical cases treated, 37
Male Patients, 241
Female Patients, 401
Children, 62
Number of Day's Work Total, 2475
Number of Day's Work Free, 1115
Clinical cases, 49
Surgical Deaths, 22
Medical Deaths, 17
Obstetrical Deaths, 1
Premature Infants Died at Birth, 2
Still Births, 4
Morbund Patients, expiring in a few hours after admittance, 4
Total Deaths, 43

Dr. O'Meara called the attention of the staff to the very great amount of study being given to the systematic injections due to bad teeth by leaders in medical thought, and said that as a dentist had been added to the staff it would be possible for the ward patients to have the benefit of dental work when it would be beneficial and also the nurses have special instruction in dental and oral hygiene. It was unanimously decided that the staff should have monthly scientific meetings for the discussion of medical subjects during the coming year except the two summer months, July and August.

Father Hickey then in a feeling manner said that he wished to express on the part of the board of directors and staff the great regret they felt that Dr. Mary Gage-Day on account of leaving the city was obliged to sever her connection with the institution. Her work as secretary for ten years, as teacher and lecturer to the nurses for the same time and later as president of the Sanitarium Auxiliary had been most efficient and helpful and they would always have a very great appreciation of the same. He could only regret that the regret that all felt at her leaving and the best wishes of all that her activities in the sphere where she is going may be as valuable as they have been here.

Dr. Eastman moved that a staff committee draft suitable resolutions on the resignation of Dr. Day and the same be placed in the minutes of the meeting. The same was done and committee appointed.

The meeting then adjourned to the dining room and a pleasant social time followed.

Fowler Counsel to Committee.

A special committee of the senate has been designated to consider amendments to and to redraft the election law. Joseph M. Fowler of this city has been chosen as secretary and counsel. Mr. Fowler has while in the legislature, considered conference in legislative bill drafting.

A Coasting Accident.

No Peace for the Lucky.

"Heard about old Patwad? Botten back, isn't it?" "Botten back? Why, I thought he was the luckiest man going."

"Ah, but you haven't heard the latest. Six months ago he decided that he had made all the money he could possibly use, so he bought a farm and retired. He started to sink an artesian well in order to have a supply of pure water. And what did he do but strike a coal seam? Now he's got to work in harness again and make a whole lot of money that he doesn't need at all out of that coal seam. Don't you pity him from the bottom of your heart?" London Times.

Most boxers ought to make good with a circus; they are accustomed to ring work.

Footwork is the chief feature in la savate. It is also the chief feature in boxing.

A bicycle rider is the only one who can ride for six days without getting anywhere.

We can't help thinking that it must be nice to be big and peaceful like Jess Willard.

Jose R. Capablanca has gone to his home in Havana, where he will remain for several months.

If most boxers ran into a fight as quickly as they run away from it there'd be action a-plenty.

Charley Ebbets still believes that baseball is in its infancy in spite of the size of Wilbert Robinson.

"Would you call boxing a business or a sport?" queries "A Reader." In most instances it is a crime.

Cleveland and Buffalo yacht clubs will go in for small boat racing in interlake competition next summer.

The average ball player doesn't care any more about his batting average than a hard-boiled egg does about a nickel.

All sporting promoters are advocates of the catch-as-catch-can style of wrestling. They use the grip on the public.

If Charley Ebbets could ring in Wilbert Robinson as one man, he would be putting over a little something on his rivals.

There's nothing like being a fight manager. The other fellow does all the fighting and his manager gets all the dough.

That John D. Lee, who won the 1917 pennant in the National league, the other managers have nothing to worry about.

Manager Mitchell of the Cubs says he fears Alexander more than any National league pitcher. He has nothing on about 200 batters in the National league.

Baseball players are to be forbidden by their bosses from "writing" stories for newspapers on the world's series games. This will be a decided gain for literature.

Western and Pacific coast colleges will likely be given representation on the intercollegiate football rules committee at the next meeting of the organization.

Al Mamau lost ten pounds in vaudeville and had to quit to get in shape for his pitching job. Mamau is said to have one of the best right-handed voices in baseball.

According to the papers, a manager of a college baseball nine has been deprived of his amateur standing because he worked in a jewelry store on Saturdays and sold ivory.

The most surprising development of the winter league season is Mathewson's continued popularity in Cincinnati. He is so popular that some of the fans call him Van Mathewson.

Harry Frazee, the new head of the Red Sox, started life in much the same manner as Joe Lannin, late owner of the champions. Frazee was a bellhop in a Revere hotel for several seasons.

"Blue Laws"

Blue laws is a term that was applied to certain early statutes of a puritanical nature passed in Connecticut. The same is now frequently applied to restrictive statutes that prevent Sunday activity.

COASTING ACCIDENT AT LAKE KATRINE

Irwin, the six year old son of Merritt Van Gieson of Lake Katrine, received a fractured skull while coasting on the hill near the Lake Katrine station Tuesday evening, when his sled crashed into the automobile of Delbert Griffin of this city. Mr. Griffin, who is a well known contractor of this city, was going down the hill in his automobile when he felt a sudden jar at the back of his car and supposing he had a flat tire he stopped his engine and brought the car to a stop. In passing around the rear of the car Mr. Griffin discovered a boy and sled in the road close to the machine. The boy was unconscious. His identity was discovered when help was summoned by Mr. Griffin, and the boy was removed to his home. Dr. Frank Keator of this city, who was summoned, found that the boy had suffered a fracture at the base of the skull and possibly had received internal injuries. This morning the boy's condition was favorable, but it will be several days before a determination can be made of his probable chances of recovery.

TRUTH ABOUT LIFE

IN REGULAR ARMY

Sergeant Bunde Tells of the Brighter Side of Picture and the Opportunities for Advancement and Education Presented in the Service of Uncle Sam.

God and the Soldier
All men adore
In time of trouble,
And no more;
For when war is over
And all things righted,
God is neglected—
The old Soldier slighted.

To me it has always been a matter for speculation why so many of our "good citizens" have a feeling of aversion towards the soldier. I can only ascribe that fact to one cause, ignorance. Ignorance of the army in general, of the life of a soldier and even of the kind of men that fill the rank and file of the army, though these very men come from the homes of these very "good citizens." I wonder if the parents who oppose the enlistment of their sons in the army realize that they are depriving their boys of a multitude of advantages that he rarely has in civilian occupations.

It is these advantages the army offers that I wish to bring out, as I realize that the greater mass of the people know absolutely nothing or next to nothing about them. Those who have some information about the army generally have acquired it from a source either not at all reliable or from persons whose army career has been abruptly terminated generally through their own misconduct and from whom you naturally could not expect an unbiased judgment. Too often the army career is looked upon as a sort of last resort, a case of jumping in the river or joining the army. Just look around a bit and get acquainted with some of the many soldiers all over the country who are occupying positions of great trust and responsibility, guarding and conducting the military matters of Uncle Sam's army, positions requiring both skill, energy and ability in a field of such magnitude that I cannot begin to mention all. Does anybody really believe that such men could not be successful in any other walk of life? And all these men started just as your boys will do, from the very beginning of the army A. B. C. Napoleon said that: "Every soldier carries a marshal's baton in his knapsack." That is just as true now and here.

Many of our famous officers have come from the rank and file, as an example, the late Lieutenant-General Adna R. Chaffee began his military career as a private in the 6th United States Cavalry and ended by commanding the whole army and there are many others I could mention who have started from a private in the ranks and attained fame and held high positions, both in the army and later in civil life, thanks to the training they received and the education they obtained in various fields in the army. Many a youngster today is handicapped in making something of himself by want of self-reliance, by want of opportunity and by constantly being hedged in by narrowness and ignorance. They are so encumbered to their mothers' apronstrings, they have been accustomed to have some one doing for them all their life, and have never been anywhere or seen anything but their home town or the nearest village.

If they joined the army for a term of enlistment they would learn how to take care of themselves under all circumstances, they would be able to get a good education and develop whatever talent, now perhaps lying dormant, which they possess. They would have an opportunity to learn any one of dozens of trades or professions that would very materially assist them when they returned to civil life. They would see something of their own country and the world, and travel is positively a broad education in itself. I, for instance, have been in 42 states here, in Porto Rico, Cuba, Mexico, Hawaiian Islands, Japan, China, India, Egypt and many European countries and without any expense to myself with a very few exceptions, and I have certainly seen and learned a great deal and obtained knowledge of many things which I would never have been able to do if I had not been a soldier.

Then there is another side on which many people hold a view as firmly as religion, namely that soldiers are bad, that their badness is contagious and that the further one can keep from them, the better. It is absolutely false to suppose that only worthless men enter the army, and it is still more unjust to say that the army ruins morally, or in any other way, those who enter its service. Yet this is so very commonly believed that few ever dream of questioning its truth. Let me assure you that no man would be accepted in the army whose past record was known to be criminal or even dishonorable. The army today is mainly composed of a superior class of young men whose morals would compare favorably with those of any large body of young men living together. Any young man who today enters the army is encouraged to avoid any and all of the things that his own mother would guard him from. It is a common thing now at any big army post to see table after table and row upon row of young soldiers eating ice-cream and drinking sodas during their off hours, temperance in all things being greatly encouraged at all times. At nearly all army posts there is a Y. M. C. A. where the patronage is extremely large. The soldiers have comforts and pleasures there, that many of them never enjoyed in their own homes.

But why should we have an army at all? That is a question I have heard often, and heard it supported by such arguments as, "The volunteers in the Civil War did splendid things." The volunteers in the Civil War were beyond compare, but only after defeat, innumerable at the beginning had shown the fallacy of trying to fight battles with untrained men. Their training they received on the field of battle, but at a cost with which we are well acquainted Origin of the Curfew.

A note by Ruskin Butterfield reminds us that, although Shakespeare speaks of "the curfew bell" and Milton of "the far-off curfew sound," Chaucer more correctly refers to "curfew time," as curfew was originally an appliance for covering the fire. There are examples still in existence, for instance in the Hastings museum. They look like large tea cozies in metal. They served, as modern use fire guards, to prevent sparks setting the house on fire, and the housewife heaped the embers together at night and placed the curfew over them to lessen the combustion and in the morning save the trouble of stirring the fire again.—London Spectator.

No Escape From It.

We have been reminded that formerly the normal food of the Scottish child was porridge. Once a week only was he allowed, as a change, the far less satisfactory breakfast of the southern, which fact gives point to the story of the little liddle who one Saturday night suddenly asked:

"What's the morn, mither?"
"Sabbath, liddle," was the reply.
"An' will we be' say to brekfast?"
"Are, liddle, gin we're spared."
"An' gin we're no spared will we be' parritch?"—London Chronicle.

Paper.

The invention of paper has had a vast influence upon the world. With out paper our news would have to be printed on slabs of stone and bricks. Think of having your daily paper brought to your house in a moving van! It would seem almost like Sunday morning.

Paper is used for various purposes—for treaties, for histories, for news, for theology, for war correspondence. Sometimes it is even used to record the truth.—Life.

Courage of the Eagle.

As to an eagle's courage and aggressiveness, it is well known that in central Asia the golden eagle will even attack the wolf, and it is tamed and down at that savage beast as the hawk is down at felines.

Very truly yours.

SKATING CONTEST DRAWS CHAMPIONS

Among the Hudson valley skaters who will compete at the Eastern Outdoor Speed Skating Championships to be held in Newburgh on Lincoln's Birthday are the following: Archie Rogers of Arlington, a suburb of Poughkeepsie, recognized Hudson Valley champion; Richard W. Distler of Yonkers, rated one of the fastest men in the skating world; E. S. Swartwout of Congers, James McPartlan, Sr., of Verplanck, James McPartlan, Jr., of Yonkers, Frank Muckenhoupt, Harry Rose and Cornelius W. Schuyler of Poughkeepsie and Warner Drake and Howard Stanton of Newburgh.

Although the races are nearly a month off and entries do not close until February 6th, about fifty skaters have signified their intention of skating at the championships. Last year the meet attracted 71 skaters, breaking all records for the number of entries received for the Eastern Championships. Every indication points to this list being greatly exceeded this year.

FARM BUREAU AT CORNELL

Wednesday, February 14, is Farm Bureau Day according to the programs of the tenth annual Farmers' Week at Cornell. Farm Bureau committeemen, members and their friends, and all interested in the work of farm bureaus will gather at the college of agriculture to take part in a program that includes speeches, reports of progress, and discussions of the work of the farm bureaus.

M. G. Burritt, state leader, will open the meeting at 9 a. m. and will be followed by other speakers including A. R. Mann, acting dean of the college, who will speak on "What the college expects of the farm bureaus." At 11 a. m. D. V. Farley, president of the Orange County Farm Bureau Association, will tell about what the farmers expect from farm bureaus; H. L. Strivings, president of the Wyoming County Farm Bureau Association, will speak on the same subject.

The afternoon session will be given over to the reports of committees and discussions of problems concerning organization, relationships, legislation, membership, finances, and advisory councils. There are now in operation 36 farm bureaus in the state with a total membership of 13,922 with five others planning to begin work before spring and each farm bureau, it is stated, will send at least one and probably more representatives to the meeting at Ithaca on February 14.

Copies of the complete Farmers' Week program, now ready, may be obtained without charge by writing to the college of agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

ONLY FERRIES ARE RUNNING

Rondout creek presents a peaceful scene these days with only two boats running, and the others laid up in winter quarters. The Skilly-pot still ploughs its way through the ice between Sleightsburgh and T. and, and the ferry Transport is still plying between this port and Rhinecliff.

So far this winter the Transport has not met with such difficulty in making her regular trips. The tug, Rob is still in commission and lays with steam up ready to assist the Transport in breaking a track through the river ice if necessary.

At the present time there are at least thirty tugs on the Cornell line laid up in winter quarters along the Rondout creek.

The Mary Powell and the Albany of the Hudson River Day Line, are also laid up for the winter at the Sunflower dock on the Esopus side of the creek.

The upper creek is frozen completely over and ice is being harvested. The lower creek freezes over each night, but the incoming tug and the swells of the ferry boats help to break up the ice.

BORELLI PLEADS SELF DEFENCE

coming out of the jail he saw Sam and went over and asked Sam why he shot Altamari and Sam had answered, "It was either drunk or crazy," and here Officer Murphy smiled and said, "You wonder how I found that out, don't you?" asked Mr. Traver.

"I certainly do. I did not know anyone knew of the talk except myself and Sam, until just now," was the officer's answer.

But District Attorney Traver failed to enlighten anyone as to how he heard of the conversation and it may be that our county jail is fitted up with a dictograph. On cross examination Officer Murphy swore that he had never told anyone and no one so far as he knew had heard the conversation. He had simply put the question as a friendly one.

Altamari Threatened Borelli. Joseph Nacarrato who lives at Kingston Point and who worked in a game in the clay pits near Sam heard the dispute on the day of the shooting when Sam refused to work where Altamari ordered him to and also heard Altamari say, "I kill you or you kill me," and Sam had answered, "I'll fix you, not today, some other time." Joseph is an uncle of the defendant.

At this time some one in the audience began to shout out in broken English and a man rose to his feet and in a fit of anger began to shout at the court and Judge Brinnier who appeared for the defendant. Judge Jenkins rapped for order but the disturber was not quieted until Sheriff Shultis had taken him by the shoulder and shaken him when he quieted down.

Mr. Brinnier demanded to know who the disturber was so that "I can protect myself if necessary and know who to look out for," but the name of the disturber was not made known.

Antonio Secreto and Nicholas Amato neither one knew very much about the actual shooting. Amato had helped place Altamari in the trolley car and taken him to his home.

Sam Confessed Again. Officer Connolly who caught Sam on Quagana's porch a few minutes after police headquarters had been notified of the crime stated that he had obtained a confession from Sam. Sam said he had shot Altamari and had thrown the gun away.

Peter Lemister, the second boss, who went up to the pits with Sam when he came to the shed complaining of the treatment he was receiving during the day, told how Sam had said while he was walking up to the pits that he would "fix Louis" but not now there are too many people around.

This ended the case of The People and after a motion to dismiss by the defendant, which the court denied, the defense was taken up.

Sam Borelli was sworn in his own behalf and said he was 31 years old and had lived at East Kingston for 6 years and had been employed by The Hutton Company for 5 years.

After finishing his work on August third he went to the shed and had his time card punched, then went home and changed his clothes and went to the saloon where he had two beers. He next went to Turk's house and finding no one home he waited around until Mrs. Turk went up stairs and then followed her and asked for the gun to go hunting birds with. Mrs. Turk gave him the gun and he went over the hill looking for birds.

Altamari Drew His Gun. After hunting a short time he saw Louis Altamari coming down the road and as he caught sight of Sam he said, "There you are you little fellow" and reached for his gun in his hip pocket. When he reached for his gun Sam fired the first shot but this did not stop Louis who turned and drew his revolver and upon sight of the gun Sam fired the second shot and Louis dropped.

"I had no more shells and as Louis's friends were coming along I ran into the swamp to keep from being shot myself," said Sam. He was afraid of being shot so he made his way through the swamp to the corner of 221st avenue and went home where he changed his clothes and taking a piece of bread and cheese went down to the saloon to eat it and was arrested by the police.

When Officer Connolly came over and asked where Sam was Sam turned and said, "Here I am, I'm Sam Borelli." He was arrested and taken to the hall.

Sam denied having talked to Officer Murphy in the jail or anyone else upon the advice of his counsel.

Sam's excuse for dropping the gun in the swamp is that there was so much water that he could hardly get through himself and when the water reached up to his waist he said, "To hell with you" (the gun) and dropped it where he stood and then made his way out of the swamp.

This was the case of the defence and the usual motion to dismiss was denied and court took a recess until 10 o'clock this morning when the case will be sent to the jury.

At the conclusion of the case the Weber murder case will be taken up and it is likely that the entire afternoon will be devoted to getting a jury.

THE CLINTON GUARDS.

Depot Company Adopts Name for Permanent Organization.

Permanent and independent organization of the depot military company under the name of the Clinton Guards will be effected at the armory Friday evening.

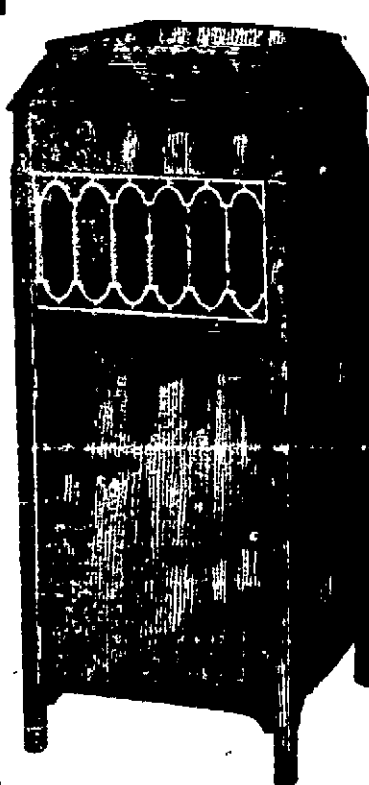

The depot company was organized at the time Company M was ordered to Camp Whitman in June. Instead of disbanding on the return of Company M, the depot company decided to continue its organization and through the courtesy of Company M it is enabled to use the armory and the rifles, etc. Uniforms probably will be purchased by the new Clinton Guards and a ball or some other entertainment will be held in the near future for the purpose of raising funds.

The Guards will continue to drill each Thursday night, as they have been doing since their organization, but on account of the dance to be given at the armory on Thursday night, this week's drill will occur on Friday night, when a business meeting also will be held to complete organization. First call will be sounded at 8:15 o'clock and assembly at 8:30 o'clock.

There are now seventy members of the company and membership is expected to increase rapidly until the company is recruited to full strength. Seven sergeants will be appointed at Friday night's meeting. Present officers of the company are: Everett Fowler, captain; Joseph M. Fowler, first lieutenant; John C. Mullen, first sergeant; Carl Preston, quartermaster. A second lieutenant will be chosen later.

It's because their Turkish blend is BALANCED

Balanced—that is what makes Fatima's blend comfortable, both while you're smoking and afterward, too.

The milder tobaccos in this Turkish blend are so well balanced with the richer, fuller-flavored leaves as to entirely off-set all "oily heaviness"—the cause of discomfort in so many other cigarettes.

And this very blending which makes Fatimas so comfortable (and therefore so sensible) is also just what imparts that unusually good Fatima taste.

But even so, you alone can decide whether or not you like Fatimas. That's easy to settle—try them.
